I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Reports to the Legislature Regarding the Operation of the Pollutant Discharge Prevention and Control Act

Background

In 1970, the Florida Legislature created the Pollutant Discharge Prevention and Control Act (the Act). The Act largely parallels provisions of the federal Clean Water Act that prohibit coastal and ocean discharges of pollutants and provides that any person discharging a pollutant into Florida waters is responsible for the immediate cleanup of the substance. Section 376.041, F.S., generally prohibits the discharge of pollutants into or upon any coastal waters, estuaries, tidal flats, beaches, and lands adjoining the seacoast of the state. The term "discharge" as defined in s. 376.031, F.S., includes, but is not limited to, any spilling, leaking, seeping, pouring, emitting, emptying, or dumping that occurs within the territorial limits of the state or outside the territorial limits of the state and affects lands and waters within the territorial limits of the state. Penalties for discharging oil or other pollutants may be as much as $50,000 per day. Violators are liable for cleanup costs, and can be required to compensate the state for any damage done to the state's natural resources.

Effect of the Bill

Section 376.17, F.S., requires that the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) include in its recommendations to each regular session of the Legislature specific recommendations relating to the operation of the Act. The DEP has made recommendations in the past as the Act was evolving, but no longer provides annual reports and this section is no longer being enforced as the need for recommendations or revisions has diminished. This section of statute is outdated, ineffective, and no longer being enforced.¹

¹ According to the Department of Environmental Protection, the Pollutant Discharge Prevention and Control Act has been implemented successfully through the years with minimal need for amendments. Three years ago DEP proposed an amendment related to the natural resource damage assessment program in section 376.121, but have not had to propose any other adjustments through the years.

Report on the Progress of the Preapproved Advanced Cleanup Program

Background

Section 376.30713, F.S., authorizes the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to enter into service contracts for the purpose of financing site-rehabilitation of contaminated property. Recognizing that “the inability to conduct site rehabilitation in advance of a site's priority ranking may substantially impede or prohibit property transactions or the proper completion of public works projects,” the Legislature established the Preapproved Advanced Cleanup Program (PACP).² Under the PACP, responsible parties may apply for cleanup funding in advance of the site's priority ranking if the responsible party is willing to enter into a cost sharing arrangement.³ Subsection (5) of the PACP required the DEP to submit a report by December 31, 1998, to the Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives on the progress and level of activity under the provisions of this section. As December 31, 1998 has passed, this subsection is outdated and ineffective.
